What is Shared Print?

Shared Print and Shared Print Programs are collaborations among libraries and groups of libraries to distribute the responsibility for protecting and preserving print collections, allowing partner libraries to repurpose library space while making available the program's collective collection to local faculty, students and scholars.

Over 23 million
books retained!

That's around 3,276 miles of books which would reach from Maine to California.

By working together, libraries can collect and maintain curated sets of print books and journals which are broadly useful and make them collectively available to readers.

The EAST Mission

Securing the scholarly record in support of teaching, learning and research

Goals: Maximize retention commitments and facilitate access

EAST

SCHOLARS' TRUST

Some EAST Definitions:

Retention Partners: Dues paying member institutions who agree to keep and provide access to titles they were allocated to retain during their collection analysis process. Can be individual or consortia.

Supporting Partners: Dues paying member institutions who support and value the work of EAST but cannot commit to retain titles; they are represented in EAST's governance. Can be individual or consortia.

Retained/Retention Commitments: Titles libraries agree to keep on and loan (or otherwise provide access to) in order to preserve the scholarly record.

Disclosure/Registration: The act of updating the records of retained titles by incorporating a “Committed to Retain” note in the MARC 583 field. This is done in the institution's ILS, in OCLC, and in PAPR (for serials/journals retentions) and facilitates discovery of shared print retentions.

The EAST Business Model

EAST member libraries pay an annual membership fee based on collection size (at the time of joining). Consortia discounts are available when libraries join together.

In addition to the annual operating budget, EAST maintains a reserve fund to facilitate subsidy of collection analysis work and support special projects approved by the Board of Directors

The Boston Library Consortium is EAST's fiscal agent providing financial services support and an administrative "home". EAST has just completed work to incorporate as a separate 501(c)(3) and will be transitioning from this relationship as of June 1, 2023. Look for further information from us!

EAST staff work virtually with the Project Director who reports to the EAST Board of Directors

Major Policies and Procedures

All of EAST's collection analysis and retention work is guided by the EAST Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) which is signed by all member libraries.

Also on the eastlibraries.org website - will be updated in June to reflect new organizational status

- General Governance Policies
- EAST Members' Rights and Responsibilities
- Major Operating Policies
 - Supplemented by documentation on replacing retention commitments for lost, missing or damaged items and Best Practices for Inter-Library Loan
 - Includes an FAQ on common questions relating to retention commitments

EAST Governance: Your Opportunity

- Representative by type and size of library
- Staggered two year terms

Operations Committee (OC)

Monographs Collection Analysis and Retention Model

Retention Partners joining EAST carry out a collection analysis using one of two tools: GreenGlass (from OCLC) or Gold Rush (from the Colorado Alliance of Research Libraries). The first 60 libraries to join EAST used GreenGlass; since then some new members have preferred to use Gold Rush for their collection analysis.

During this process, libraries:

- Load their MARC records into the tools (can include only circulating collections/locations).
- Compare their local records to the EAST collective collection of retention commitments to determine uniqueness and overlap resulting in a retention model for the library's collection
- Review an initial allocations list that includes the titles they are asked to retain and finalize their local retention commitments
- Register commitments in the appropriate data bases.

The EAST Monograph Retention Model

The retention model has evolved to reflect the size of EAST and to take into consideration the results of our validation sampling with Cohorts 1 and 2. The basic model is as follows, adapted to the tool libraries choose to use:

- Retain all scarcely held – includes unique titles and those with limited holdings in WorldCat (if comparison with WorldCat is feasible)
- Retain up to 5 of frequently used – based on aggregation of usage for Cohorts 1 and 2
- Retain an additional copy of titles published pre-1900 (based on validation research on condition)
- Exclude “ephemera” and limited to titles published prior to 2011*

* To be updated with collection analysis work in 2023

Serials and Journals

- Thirty-two of the EAST members are Serials and Journals Retention Partners. Two retain only serials titles.
- The journal collection analysis was carried out with the support of the Center for Research Libraries, which worked with the EAST Project Team to develop a phased methodology to identify titles held by 4-6 participating libraries, then 7-28, and lastly, titles held by 3 or fewer libraries. This work yielded ~27K retained titles.
- Subsequent participation in the Rosemont Last Known Copy Initiative have increased this number to over 37K holdings

Details of this work can be found in the EAST Serials & Journals Collection Analysis and Retention Modeling 2016-2019 document.

Reallocation Process

Twice yearly call for libraries to request reallocation of retained titles that can no longer be retained (because they are out of scope - in which case the retention is removed and not reallocated,- due to loss, change in lending status, etc).

Once a year, we send out to the libraries the lists of titles that have been requested for reallocation and which are held (but not retained) at other EAST libraries.

Libraries then let us know if they can retain those new titles and update their ILS and WorldCat accordingly. These changes would also be reflected in the annual Gold Rush data update request.

- Shared Print Toolkit and Best Practices
- Communicating about weeding
- Risk research on optimal number of copies to retain
- Pilot research project with OCLC to investigate shared print holdings by subject area
- How can shared print provide a further safety net should member libraries be unable to continue to commit to retentions?
- Continued advocacy on the value of shared print through communications efforts and ROI tools

Formed in 2015, as a collaboration of regional programs interested in coordinating their efforts on a larger scale to ensure the retention of and access to print journal backfiles.

Impact of Rosemont on EAST - Retention

- Reduce retention commitments for our members by excluding titles already committed by fellow Rosemont participating libraries
- Reciprocal retention agreement:
“whereby all participants in the Rosemont Alliance agree and affirm that all holdings retained by their respective programs are also retained under the Rosemont Shared Print Alliance and, by definition, subject to the Rosemont shared policies or guidelines, including the Access Principles”

Impact of Rosemont on EAST - Access

- Guaranteed access to over 210,00 titles retained by fellow Rosemont libraries

“Participants agree to make Rosemont Alliance archived materials available to other Rosemont members. Archived material is eligible for lending to institutions outside of the Alliance per the holding library’s lending relationships and policies.”
- Last Copy Agreement to provide guidance to libraries about what to do when a last or scarcely held backfile is detected in a collection

The Center for Research Libraries promotes opportunities for knowledgeable individuals at libraries and consortia to share information, expertise and best practices on the strategic management of print holdings. The Print Archive Network (PAN) Forums are venues for this kind of information sharing. The semi-annual PAN Forum has been held since 2009. It occurs the Friday morning before ALA's annual and midwinter conferences. Everyone with an interest in print archiving is welcome to attend and participate in the Forums.

PAN Event Lists and Materials

- The CRL Event Index lists all PAN events since 2010, as well as any scheduled future PAN events. PowerPoint presentations and reports on various U.S. and Canadian shared print and print archive programs, produced for past PAN Forums, are also available within this index.
- The old PAN Meeting Archive contains early discussions and materials leading up to the development of a North American print archives framework in 2010.

From the FAQ:

What does an EAST retention commitment mean?

A retention commitment means that the retaining library is committed to retain the title and provide access through June 30, 2031.* This includes replacing the title if lost or damaged.

How do I know what monographs are retained?

Retentions are recorded in your local ILS (most likely in a MARC 583 field), Gold Rush, and OCLC's FirstSearch.

This date may be extended.*

Ask the Project Team for login information.*
